On April 10, 2018 the petitioner, Jennifer Solon, by her attorney, Ms. Virginia Foulkrod, Esq., presented the prima facie case, on the instant enforcement petition. The petitioner called the representative from the Support Collections Unit, Mr. Abraham Varkey, who testified extensively as to the amount of the arrears. Ms. Eve Bunting-Smith as the attorney for the respondent, Marc Fishman, properly and thoroughly cross examined the witness and was aided in her questions by written questions handed to her by the respondent. After several cross examination and several redirects, the petitioner rested. The respondent was duly sworn and was preparing to give testimony in defense of the violation proceedings. It was at this juncture, and by the inquiry of counsel for the petitioner, that the respondent requested that a scribe be made available to him. The matter was adjourned to the following day, April 11, 2018. A date that had been previously scheduled as a continuation of trial. On April 11, 2018, the court adjourned the matter as it was communicated to the court that the respondent expected the court to provide the scribe. It is noted in the respondent's ADA request, that the purpose of a scribe for the respondent is to be that of a note taker and the respondent also stated in said request, that the note taker would be provided by the respondent himself.

It is herein found that the court will not provide a scribe to the respondent in this matter for the express purposes of a note taker during trial proceedings. The court does not have available at its disposal, stenographic note taker services to assist a litigant in trial proceedings. It is herein further noted, that the respondent if he so chooses can provide his own scribe to assist in these proceedings as long as the scribe is a neutral party and not a potential witness. In furtherance of the respondent's other and numerous accommodation requests, these hearings have been held in half day sequences.

As the instant matters where herein adjourned from today's proceedings, the trial shall resume promptly on May 3, 2018 at 9:00 and if needed on June 12, 2018 at 9:00 and again if needed on June 19, 2018 at 9:00 a.m.
